"MINNIEVILLE"

New Factor in Breckenridge
County Affairs--The Little Town Booming.

"Minnieville, Breckenridge county, Kentucky," while not so old as some of her sister towns, nor quite so well known, promises, nevertheless, to become a factor in the affairs of the county. Minnieville is only two months old and is located near Tar Springs. The town was founded by Mr. J. C. Mervise and sons, who are engaged extensively in the lumber business. Minnieville now has three saw mills, employing about fifty men, one grist mill, two general stores and several residences. Other houses are being built to accommodate those who are moving in.

Mr. Mervise and his three sons are firm believers in the old adage that "in unity there is strength." They are investing considerable capital in the new enterprise. They say the timber thereabouts is the finest in this section of the State, both in quality and quantity.

As yet Minnieville has no postoffice but Mr. Mervise is striving to have one established there shortly.

THURSDAY SET ASIDE

As Trustees' and Patrons' Day at the County Teachers' Institute.

The following invitation has been sent out by Joel H. Pile, superintendent of schools of Breckenridge county:

Hardinsburg, Ky., Sept. 29, 1906. My Friends--Possibly the Superintendent, the trustees, the patrons, the teachers and the pupils have all fallen short in doing their known duty--and what about the unknown?

Trustees and Patrons, it is in your duty and mine to see that children attend school. There's a compulsory law, and we have sat for years criminally negligent of it.

I propose to do my part, and to serve without fear or favor, satisfying an aroused conscience in faithfully seeing that "the little ones" are not neglected.

In order that we may get together and learn what's to be done and how to do it, I have set Thursday, October 4, as Trustees' and Patrons' Day at the institute.

You are urged to attend. This is a debt you owe the children. Discharge your debts and owe no one. State Superintendent Fuqua will be present, if his health will permit. County Attorney Goss Brown will explain the law and address the people.

Addresses to you as patrons and trustees will be made by Rev. Wm. L. Gabe, Judge Moorman and Mr. Jesse Whitworth. Others who have been invited to speak include Magistrates Drury and Bates, and the Hon. Chas. Blanford. You are invited because you want to, and because you have a work to do. Come, bring others, and help in the noble work of educating the children.

Remember that next Thursday is the time.

Yours, for the schools,
Joel H. Pile, Superintendent.

Dispatches from the gulf coast show that the storm caused more deaths than has been thought. In and near Mobile the number is 125, while eighteen are known to be dead in the vicinity of New Orleans. Property losses are also mounting here, the damage to pine timber alone being placed at $10,000,000.

LETTER FROM OKLAHOMA.

Kentucky Boy, Launched in the Far West, Writes Back to Old Friends.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 30.—Dear Readers and Kentucky Friends: In the course of events there come moments when all of us have to depend upon our own short-sighted minds and take steps which lead into the lazy future—steps which, when once taken, form a corner stone in the life which is to follow.

On the last day of summer came such a decisive moment to me. I was through of law school and a member of the Kentucky bar, though my legal education was of little value to me, so long as I allowed it to remain inactive.

Two fields lay before me. In one were friends, a developed land, well established institutions, a settled condition of affairs, and the finest system of society under the stars. In the other were feeble institutions, an undeveloped country, no person whom I might call a friend, a fluctuating society, and chaos still struggling to retain its hold. I considered many times over the outlook, but finally launched my frail craft into the Southwest, not knowing where I would land; taking no letters of introduction, and having only one acquaintance in all that vast country.

A round trip ticket would have been but slightly more expensive. But no, the bridges must be burned behind, else when the certain reverses come they offer too convenient means for a retreat. This step may have been wrong, but if it is, it will bring back a new individual, an individual that has profited by the passage of time and is able to form a greater factor in the welfare of his native state.

After an oft-repeated sigh and regret that I had not remained nearer the parental home, I reached Fulton, at the border of the old state, took supper with a friend, and proceeded on through our sister state, Tennessee. A day's journey then across the swamps and through the hills of Arkansas brought me into the Choctaw country, where, instead of the wild Indian upon fertile prairies, were a few Arkansians living in the worst of cabins, trying here and there to dig a living out from between the rock in the narrow valleys that occasionally bordered the streams. This was along the Midland Valley road, that, I think, deserves that the name, "Slow Train Through Arkansas" should be taken from the rock island and conferred upon it, a large portion of it lying in Arkansas.

After being in the Indian country an hour the land began to improve, but old how slow, so great was the improvement necessary before it could be inhabited by the practical farmer.

By 2 o'clock Monday we reached the Canadian river and for the first time realized the truth of the tales we had heard of herds of cattle suddenly sinking beneath its treacherous sands. But the suspense while the train was passing over the mere trigger-work of posts and ties piled upon the quicksand, was a relief from the drear monotony of the previous barren scenery. After being safely over without the train sinking into the sands, the outlook changed; corn and cotton fields succeeded one another more rapidly until at last we found ourselves actually out on the great plains, the land stretching on either side to distant hills, themselves often a tree less.

The Choctaw nation had been passed without seeing scarcely an Indian, but we were now in the land of the Creeks, and soon in city of Muskogee, the metropolis of the Indian Territory, commercially, socially and intellectually. The most prominent feature there was the great number of negroes and the insensible gradation from the cool black descendants of the Zulu, through the various shades of mixed negro and Indian, through the red skin in all of his array of red garments and hawk's feathers, all through the many degrees of half quarter and other breeds, all of which is accurately determined and recorded by the Government from the possessor of one and a half two hundred and fifty-sixths white blood to the possessor of an equal amount of red blood. But the strength of the city lies in its white inhabitants. The confusion was awful. On the streets a black or yellow person must always be treated courteously for fear he has some red blood in his veins, and in society the inexperienced is unable to tell whether the blonde he is talking with is an Indian or not. He has to do like the rest. They know each other's pedigree.

Muskogee is crowded with lawyers, though I found a good opening and made many friends. From there I went to McAlester and Wilburton without finding anything. Durant was bad enough at first sight, though the land there is very fertile. Not yet homesick, but silently considering that perhaps I should have bought a round trip ticket, I headed for Oklahoma City. Shortly before crossing the Canadian river for the third time, we passed through a limestone country, with fertile fields, steep, well-wooded hills and comfortable homes. The sight of the rock made my heart throb with sudden animation, but only for a moment, for the thought of home, which quickly followed, suppressed all excitement, and I could have gotten off right there and waited for the first train home.

The train was falling and it was 3:30 p. m. Monday when the train arrived at Oklahoma City. The next morning all was bright and clear. A great city was there, but it did not know me; no one there knew or had ever heard of me, and the bustle of every one in the mad race for wealth caused me to for once become pessimistic—surely there was nothing for me there, so I sat down and wrote for my mail to be sent to Enid, whither I intended going, but I had come out here to do my best, and so struck out on the job hunt.

The first inquiries brought references, and these multiplied, but by noon I had only one left, a last chance to which a Kentuckian I had run upon had referred me. A few minutes before my train was to depart for Enid I called at this office and in less than ten minutes had convinced the manager that I was the person he wanted to manage his city work and a portion of his foreign business.

We represent practically all of the business men of this city in their collections and are the attorneys in the southwest for several hundred jobbing and wholesale houses.

As to Oklahoma, her people and institutions, I can not say yet, but dare presume that they are far behind old Kentucky. But age will mature us into a factor in the affairs of our country, and, thanking my parents for the lessons they have taught me, and Kentucky for my training, and my friends back there for their support, I am going to have a hand in the new State.

PALMA'S DAY IS DONE

His Party Decides to Refuse to Accept His Resignation.

TRYING TO SAVE THEIR FACE

No Matter What Turn Affairs in Cuba May Take Intervention is Bound to Follow and Taft Will Be the Head of the Provisional Government. Funston at Havana.

Havana, Sept. 28.—At an assembly of Moderates it was decided to refuse to accept President Palma's resignation in the hope of inducing him to continue in office and thus avoid intervention.

Intervention by the installation of a provisional government was contemplated, but the United States peace commissioners will await developments in congress.

The atmosphere at the palace last night was decidedly gloomy. Everybody who emerged from President Palma's office wore a long face.

President Palma steadfastly refused every solicitation of his friends to withdraw his resignation. Typical of this was the cablegram he sent to President Roosevelt in response to the final urgent message from Roosevelt that he remain at his post. In this President Palma expressed his warmest appreciation of President Roosevelt's efforts to secure peace for Cuba and his friendship for him. He also showed the Cuban people. He referred to his own previous sacrifices for Cuba, which he said had not been made in vain, but in the present situation and in view of all that had transpired he felt that further sacrifice on his part would be useless, and that it was not consistent with his dignity and prestige to remain in office.

President Palma will retire as poor as when he assumed the office, but all his friends are confident that he will have the satisfaction of having conscientiously and industriously discharged his duties in face of the almost constant lack of co-operation from congress.

Were it possible to induce President Palma to withdraw his resignation the situation still would be most difficult and intervention would continue to be the most probable outcome. If Palma's resignation was accepted it would then become necessary for congress to elect a provisional president. Such an election would be a new sort of contention not only between the opposing political parties but probably between the opposing factions within these parties.

This being the situation nobody is likely to doubt that within 24 hours Secretary Taft by authority of the president of the United States, will proclaim himself provisional governor of Cuba. Such a government, however, would be made Cuba as far as it was possible to do so by continuing the various departments under the immediate control of the present heads. Immediate developments in the situation depend on the action taken by congress. It is not likely that the Liberals will attend the session, but the Moderates and the Liberal Nationalists combined expect to secure a quorum. The Moderate leaders expect nothing except intervention, it being a matter of common report among them that armed United States forces will flock ashore from the warships assembled here even before the meeting of congress. Even should congress carry out its announced intention of not accepting President Palma's resignation, Secretary Taft will hold that a vacancy exists unless Palma himself concludes to remain in office.

The commissioners will not brook the establishment of a provisional government by the Cubans since it is a means of gaining time. They hold that if a provisional government is created it must be by the United States, and have little confidence in the seriousness or intentions of the politicians who have been vacillating for more than a week of futile negotiations.

In the meanwhile preparations for the landing of marines and bluejackets from United States warships are fully completed, and within a short time after Secretary Taft gives the order all advantageous points selected by the naval officers would be occupied by a force of at least 2,500 men. The non-acceptance of President Palma's resignation and its withdrawal will be Cuba's last card.

General Frederick Funston since his arrival has gone over all the military plans, approved them and familiarized himself with the military situation. Among the places visited by General Funston was the rebel camp outside of Havana, where he met Generals Guerra, Del Castillo and other commanders of the insurgents, some of whom he met during last revolution.

Stoesel Resigned.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 28.—It is reported that General Stoesel, who commanded the Russian forces at Port Arthur, submitted his resignation from the army. It is understood that it will be accepted, thereby ending the history of the surrender of the fortress without the undesirable disclosures which would result from a formal court-martial. The general's resignation is said to have been due to the initiative of the emperor. After reading the report of the commission appointed to investigate the surrender of Port Arthur recommending that Stoesel be dismissed from the army and shot, his majesty expressed his aversion to any further discussion of the subject in an open court.

The Married Bridegroom.

There are held here many "occasional weddings" as they are called when the ceremony is kept unusually quiet. But sometimes they are too confidential to please the relatives of the parties. The coercion of prospective brides under such circumstances is a proceeding well authenticated in fact and fiction. A kidnaped bridegroom, however, is unusual, though he happened at St. George's not long ago. He was a gentleman of position, and he wished to marry the lady who had nursed him through an illness. There was no cause or just impediment save social rank. The gentleman was determined to marry, and the lady seconded his plans admirably. But the day and the details leaked out, and before the time fixed the bridegroom's male relatives deployed strategically through Madison street and surrounded the church. He drove up in a hansom cab. With his eyes fixed on the expectant bride, he prepared to alight. An athletic uncle and a brother sprang forward, thrust him back, with a "Glad to meet you, old fellow" manner that deceived the gentleman, who obeyed the quick direction he heard and drove the three away. The lady, with tears in her eyes, went into the vestry. "There will be no wedding," she said. "They've run away with him." And that was the last St. George's heard of them.—London Mail.

Forest's Unnatural Death.

The life of nearly all forests is cut short by fire or by the hand of the lumberman. When a spruce forest is entirely destroyed by fire young spruces do not at once spring up and cover the burned area. The seed-bearing cones have been burned, and the spores and seeds of other plants which are readily carried by the wind find their way in first. The task of preparing for the forest is begun again, but this time it is to be a shorter one. The first year after the fire moccasins and often tiny flowering plants appear. These are replaced by grass and other flowers whose seeds are provided with hairs so that they reach such places quickly. These are soon joined by raspberries, roses and other bushes. Among these the young seedlings of aspens appear in a very few years. The latter grow rapidly and in a score of years form a low sunny forest. An aspen forest makes a brilliant contrast with the dark green forests of spruce.—St. Nicholas.

Origin of Ascent Races.

When did Ascent races begin? They are mentioned in the first "Racing Calendar," published in 1727. The usual statement is that they were founded by the Duke of Cumberland, uncle of George III. But an entry in the account of the marriage of the prince in 1712 suggests that they were founded by Queen Anne on Aug. 6, 1711. The truth, no doubt, is that Ascent races, like many other sports and pastimes, gradually developed from a germ, so that it is difficult to say when they really began. At any rate, they were the sort of thing that court and country of the turf, Queen Anne, would have founded. She was a thorough Stuart in this passion. It was her great-grandfather, James, who encouraged, if he did not establish, horse racing in Scotland and popularized it in England.—London Chronicle.

Keen Sense of Humor.

"There is nothing like a sense of humor," said a naval officer, according to the Philadelphia Bulletin. "In a woman, in a soldier, in a sailor, in a clerk, a sense of humor is a help and a blessing through life. At the same time even a sense of humor may exist in excess. I, for my part, shouldn't care to have so great a sense of humor as a British soldier I once heard about. This soldier was ordered to be flogged. During the flogging he laughed continuously. The lash was laid on all the harder, but under the rain of blows the soldier laughed.

"What are you laughing at the sergeant finally asked.

"Why," the soldier chuckled, "I'm the wrong man."

An Arab Fishing Tarn.

A fishing yarn from Algeria: "Some Arabs were fishing from a boat with lines off the coast when a dolphin leaped seven feet long, eleven feet in circumference and weighing four tons swallowed one of the baited hooks and dashed off at a tremendous speed. The fishermen paid out as much line as possible and then made it fast. This brought the dolphin up sharply, but the strain snapped the line. The monster then attacked the boat and captured it, flinging the fishermen into the water. Other Arabs nearby waited until the dolphin was clear of the men and then killed it with rifles."

The Logical Question.

A little Philadelphia boy was taken by his father for his first visit to the zoo. Stopping before an inclosure, he asked, "What animal is that?" Reading the sign tacked up to one side, his father responded, "That, my son, is a prong horned antelope."

In view from the battery of the senators—Louis XVI.

Two Girls.

It is just as easy to fall in love with a rich girl as it is to fall in love with a poor one, but it is generally easier for the poor one.—St. Joseph (Mo.) Press-News.

Be of good courage; that is the main thing.—Thoreau.

CROSSES THE RIVER OF DEATH.

Ed. Miller, Formerly of Breckenridge County, Dies in Kansas.

Hutchinson, Kansas.—Ed. Miller, son of Lewis and Bettie A. Miller, formerly of Breckenridge county, Ky., died at his home, in Hutchinson, Monday, September 24, 1906, at 6:15 p. m., of apoplexy. He was twenty-six years of age. Deceased was taken sick in Illinois with pneumonia and was sick there three weeks, when he came home, and was never able to leave his room for six weeks, when death claimed him. He wanted to get well, but God in His goodness saw fit to take him home, where he will await the coming of the rest.

He leaves a father, mother, four brothers and five sisters, besides a host of relatives and friends to mourn his death. They should grieve not, because they have every reason to believe that he is saved. He was a kind and loving son and an affectionate brother. Ed. was a bright, intelligent and industrious young man, and well liked by all who knew him.

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at the home, after which he was laid to rest in the Hutchinson cemetery. A number of friends were present, who join the bereaved family in their grief at his departure.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pain, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or uneasy heart beats and makes the heart labor. If you have heart trouble, the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kline's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is now realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits.

Put up all drugs in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail. Write to Dr. Kline's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and he will send you a sample bottle by mail.

Don't make any mistake! Remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kline's Swamp-Root, and the address, Birmingham, N. Y., on every bottle.

SOUTHWEST

The Land of BIG CROPS and PROSPERITY.

Are you making as much off your farm as you ought? No doubt you are making all you can. The trouble is the land costs too much. It takes too much money to buy a big farm, and so you are trying a living on a small farm, or perhaps you are renting one and paying a good share of what you raise. It would be better to go where the price of good land is so little that you can own a big farm—where every acre of the ground is working for you and all your raise is paying you good profit.

There are thousands of acres of fertile land in the Southwest at along the line of the Cotton Belt. Route that can be bought for from $5 to $10 an acre. This land is increasing in value each year.

See the Southwest at Small Cost

A trip to the Southwest would cost you just what your best interests say in settling there. The trip can be made at very little expense. On the 1st and 3rd Tuesdays of each month you can, for instance, a round trip ticket to the Southwest on or before the 1st of the month, and return on or before the 15th of the month. After that time, the round-trip ticket will be allowed for you to examine any locality you are interested in.

Write at once for free copies of books describing the Southwest country and for full information about cost of tickets, etc.

Does Your Heart Beat

Yes. 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

One frequent cause of bad blood is sluggish liver. This produces constipation. Pale, sallow complexion is then absorbed into the blood. Keep the bowels open with Ayer's Pills.

UP TO GOVERNOR BECKHAM.

Editor Gore, The Brilliant Anti-Saloon
Fighter, Serves Notice on The Governor.

Mr. Rogers Gore, who but recently conducted successfully the most brilliant fight against the saloon in Washington county, is not satisfied with the way the lid has been raised in Louisville and in his paper this week has the following pertinent editorial:

The Democrats of Washington county are watching Louisville with much interest. Gov. Beckham put the lid on, and the people applauded him. But the lid came off! Gov. Beckham says he will put it on again, and that what the people of this county are interested in. Every day the question is asked by many of our countrymen: "Will Beckham put the lid on in Louisville?" The Governor says he has the authority, certainly he has the power. The State militia is at his command, he is the Commander-in-Chief. And it's up to you, Gov. Beckham! If you put the Louisville lid on in the next week or two—if you put it on good and tight—Washington county will give you a nice majority. If you do not put the Louisville lid on the people will feel that they are innocents—that they have been making a grandstand play. They will believe that you have "made a deal," as the Louisville Herald of yesterday charges, with the whiskey element for Louisville's vote, and Washington county will go 500 to 1,000 majority against you.—Elizabethtown News.

Sold Farm For $5,000.

Mr. F. K. Rhodes has sold his farm in the southwestern section of the county to Will Tom Cannon. Consideration, $5,000. The farm is located in the McDaniel district.

An Extraordinary Forest.

The most extraordinary forest in the world was discovered by Dr. Welwitsch and occupies a tableland some six miles in width near the west coast of Africa. The peculiarity of the trees is that, though their trunks are as much as four feet in diameter, they attain the height of only a foot. No tree bears more than two leaves, and these attain a length of six and a breadth of two feet.

Not What He Seemed.

Romance has done a deceptive halo over the old yeoman farmer. He was certainly not a good tiller of the soil, but lazy, of fashioned and unenterprising. No houses were so much in need of repair, no gardens so ill kept, no fields so overgrown with weeds, as those of the small proprietor of the eighteenth century—London Country Life.

Neighbors.

She—I have not seen you for an age, Herr Doctor, notwithstanding that we live only a few streets apart here in Berlin. I learned with much regret that you've been ill. Herr Doctor—Who told you that? She—My brother wrote me from India.—Flegende Blatter.

Just Here and There

This is the season when the coal man gets his dues.

"All coons look alike" to a chicken.

Let's have a county fair next year. Every citizen in Breckenridge county should feel it his duty to take an active interest in promoting this enterprise.

Breathes there a merchant with soul so dead who to himself has never thought "It pays to advertise."

There's one thing in which we are better off than Rockefeller, and that is the satisfaction of knowing that when we die our relatives and friends and the charity organizations won't be fighting over the money we leave behind.

If you're a grumbler and can't find anything else to grumble about but your home town, just take a vacation until you have visited other towns the size of Cloverport. If you are still inclined to "knock" we'll see if a home for confirmed grumblers can't be established, with you as a charter member.

Boys, if you will smoke cigarettes don't add another sin to your young lives by saying "my parents never taught me better." One father told his son that "cigarette smoking is no honor; most any coon can smoke."

Girls, "honor your father that your days may be long," etc., and fathers, honor your daughters' millinery bills that your days may multiply in peace.

"Advertising doesn't pay," said a merchant in an adjoining county several months ago. Since then, however, his goods have been advertised, over the sheriff's signature.

It isn't every man with a cold nose these mornings that can be accused of falling off the "water wagon."

Several weddings in and around Cloverport are said to be scheduled for this fall. Lovers as well as poets are affected by these dreary days.

Strange how the impressions of youth stick to a fellow always. Remember that once during our kid days a fellow asked us the loan of a dime. He got it—all we had—and bought a drink, and when we asked him to return it he got mad, "cussed us out" and said it was counterfeit, anyhow.

A correspondent in one of our exchanges says that "Mr. Stillwell is still sick."

Merchants, let the News do your talking for you. Nearly every family in the county reads the News, and the cheapest way of putting before the public what you have to sell is through these columns.

At revoir, sweet summer girl: let's hope that winter will be lenient with us and that ere many months pass you will be with us again, donned in lovely white.

A commercial club is the business life of any town. Cloverport has a commercial club composed of enterprising business men. We are expecting good returns for the energy they are expending in behalf of Cloverport.

A newspaper report says that a man died from the effects of eating a pound of limburger cheese.

Probably the reporter got a "whiff" of him and surmised the rest.

Some men's idea of a "hale fellow well met" is the man who is always there with the price of a drink when they meet him.

Nasal CATARRH

Ely's Cream Balm

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents.

SEVERS DRUG CO.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 26.—A. R. Ludwig of Mishawaka killed his wife by pouring gasoline over her body and applying a match. He then set fire to the family residence and killed himself.

Waved his arm in the air and said, "Back, Prince!" and the faithful brute swam back in the direction in which the vessel had disappeared beneath the surface. Where do you find such pathos in the sea business now? Give me the old sailor every time."
